Organization of perfect personality education has been an important requirement and main goal of social society in all eras. Naturally, even in the conditions of educational reforms, well-rounded personality education is gaining importance.

At present, when creative work is being carried out in the social and economic spheres in our country, great attention is paid to the preparation of young people for socially useful work in labor education. because work educates the next generation intellectually, morally and aesthetically, forms their outlook and strong will qualities. Cultivating voluntary qualities and teaching them labor skills is a very complicated process.

No matter how important the role of the school is in organizing the labor education of students, it cannot be successfully solved without the cooperation of the family and the neighborhood. because the family is the first center of education, the first teacher, the place of primary education that awakens the child's ability to work, ability, and social interest, while the neighborhood was considered the environment for his development and growth.

A healthy family environment, personal example of parents, attitude to work, consequences of love for working people, peaceful neighborhood, kind neighbors are also important in giving a child labor education. A child's interest and desire for work is formed very early. father or mother takes into account the character and interest of their child and gives them labor education from a young age. It is necessary to use more explanation and demonstration of actions in getting children used to self-service. from an early age, every child participates in labor, self-service, that is, dressing, cleaning up after meals, dusting, putting on shoes, watering flowers, and other tasks that are not too difficult or appropriate. If he does the work regularly, the work is for the child has an educational effect. if all these are founded in the family, they will be formed in the activities of the neighborhood. Through various activities held in preschool educational organizations, children develop the skills of setting goals, planning the work process, using materials wisely, and using methods in accordance with the purpose of the work. Agility for 6-7-year-old children accuracy and speed of movements, adaptation of material, ability to get out of difficult situations independently develops. all this will open up new opportunities for developing the foundations of creative activity in secondary schools in the future.

We should not forget one more thing: in upbringing, we should treat each child according to his behavior and temperament. Of course, the child's age, gender, intelligence, intelligence, in short, everything should be taken into account. He should forget the idea that he is still a child and be brought up with the idea that he is a child from the beginning.

There should be no such thing as a small detail in the education process, because it can be very important in its place." Do not think that you will educate the child only when you talk to him, advise him or order him something you raise the child at every moment of your marriage, even when you are not at home. "How you dress, how you talk to others and about others, whether you are happy or worried, how you treat your friends and enemies, how you read newspapers, all these are of great importance for a child," said the educational scientist indeed, there is such a thing in a human child that he never forgets the upbringing he received in the family and always lives by imitating that work. There is a proverb in our wise people, "What a bird sees in its nest, it does." Therefore, we should pay great attention to our children from a young age.

If the atmosphere in the family is not good, i.e. parents are indifferent to their children and there are always quarrels, this will have a strong impact on the upbringing and development of the child. because the family is the child's primary educational school.

Unfortunately, there are parents among us who are too attentive to all the demands and needs of the child and bear all their stubbornness. As a result, the child will become a person with bad behavior and harm to the society in the future. In order to prevent such problems from arising, we must give proper education to the future young generation and teach them fairness, correct speech, truthfulness and respect. In conclusion, the main center of education in raising the young generation is the school. Boys and girls with different behaviors come to school from different families. It is very difficult to learn the rules and regulations of the school, to form the habit of being with the team. If this is done in cooperation with the family and the school, if the negative characteristics of children's behavior are solved together, there will not be a bad student.

We know that everything starts from the neighborhood. Education of young people is one of the effective ways of their spiritual maturity, which is the close cooperation of state law enforcement agencies, public education system and community organizations of neighborhoods.

In the coming future, every family and neighborhood is of great importance in raising a perfect person in our society. When raising young people to be well-behaved and loyal to state symbols, special importance should be given to their youth and character, because without them, the goal of education cannot be achieved.

In the process of "family, neighborhood, school cooperation" concept in educating the young generation, each of them has their own tasks. For example:

- First of all, to develop a healthy environment in the family, to take care of each other; - to give children worldly knowledge, to grow into a spiritual person; - to teach children to think independently and to form a feeling of love for the motherland; - additional education in children's free time to give

- Holding meetings with neighborhood activists about children's education and solving problems;

- Conducting contests, holidays, sports competitions

for students by the neighborhood

A. Avloni's phrase: "Education is a matter of life, or death, or salvation, or destruction, or happiness, or disaster for us" became the principle of the family, school, and neighborhood. Currently, the neighborhood and the community provide a lot of support for children's education. It is desirable to engage young children in the community, to engage in extracurricular activities, organization. Another useful aspect of the neighborhood is to educate students who are difficult to educate teenagers outside of school and to conduct sports and cultural activities with children in their living areas.

After all, "The future begins today. If we do not pay attention to the issue of education now, the future will be lost." said I. Karimov. In fact, if there is no education, there will be no education. If there is no education, our future will be lost. I can say that we should pay attention to education in order to make our future youth mature and well-rounded in all aspects.

If we express the process of education through numbers, let's put education in the 1st place and choose it as the number 1, now the more zeros we put behind it, the bigger the number will be, that is, the good feelings of a person will increase, but only one number subtract the value of this number completely changes it to 0 and makes it meaningless. It is clear from this that without education, we have become nothing. So, what makes a person a person, his clothing is education.

Cooperation of family, neighborhood and educational institutions is of great importance in the large-scale work of our President to bring up a highly spiritual generation, which is no less than any other. The harmonious conduct of education and upbringing serves as the main factor in raising independent-minded, well-rounded young people.
