In Uzbekistan, where more than half of the population is young, ensuring their rights and freedoms, legitimate interests, protecting them from any external influences is a priority of state policy.

Sh.Mirziyoyev

When I have a conversation with our luminaries on the streets, they often say, "You young people are the society, the backbone of our country, the mountain of trust". "The old man doesn't know what he knows". Indeed, in today's fast-paced information age, the role of young people is invaluable. The elderly are considered ancient. They have little desire to live in harmony with the new era. And for some as a baby gets older, he or she will outgrow this. We can see this in our daily lives. Even a child who has just started to walk and crawl can distinguish between devices such as telephones and computers, and can use them if necessary.

At the heart of the great blessing, that is, the radical reforms that have begun in our country since independence, is man, his happiness, material well-being and spiritual maturity. Today, our country has become a prosperous and beautiful country, which is recognized by many countries. From time immemorial, the attention of the people of Uzbekistan (note, not the Uzbek people, but the people of Uzbekistan, because our country is not only Uzbek, but also a country of different nationalities) is always important. and has been a particularly noteworthy task. Therefore, the issue of spirituality, the control over the formation of a harmoniously developed generation as a perfect human being has become a key part of our social and political life.

There are so many types of problems in our well-being. These problems try to jeopardize our well-being, which we are unable to see peace, development, or material prosperity. In other words, at a time when we are constantly striving to develop and acquire science, to be recognized as the most developed country in the world in the future, to mislead our youth with various alien ideas, misuse of information technology. we are witnessing negative vices such as urging. This is, of course, the biggest blow to our national mentality, to ourselves.

Man's time is the greatest blessing given by the Creator. Spending our time productively, productively, and efficiently will help us achieve great results in our future careers. But what if we waste that time? What if we use computers and telephone devices for useless purposes? Yeah AI that sounds pretty crap to me, Looks like BT aint for me either.

The first President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Islam Abduganievich Karimov in his book "Dream of harmoniously developed generation" said: "Let the ideology of our society serve to make the people – the people, the nation - the nation. "Only an idea against an idea, only an idea against an idea, and only an enlightenment against ignorance can be debated and won "[1]. And this book contains a number of in-depth thoughts on the need to pay great attention to the harmoniously developed generation. Indeed, the implementation of the above should be the goal of every country's policy, he said.

Occasionally, we witness night raids by police on television. It is during these processes that one sees the presence of young people through images taken in computer clubs and imagines something bad inside. It seems that this is destroying the great opportunities that are being created for young people today, the high level of trust that is being placed in them.

In order to prevent and reduce such cases, your esteemed head of state has developed "5 important initiatives" and implemented them in our lives. These initiatives are mainly aimed at the meaningful organization of leisure time of the population, including young people. In addition, as mentioned above, the Youth Union of Uzbekistan has organized cyber games competitions for children who secretly play computer games in nightclubs, to encourage the winners, thereby protecting young people from external influences. to our world.

As a proposal, we can say that it is necessary to more comprehensively organize the 5 most important initiatives of the President, to create conditions for young people in rural areas to use modern information technologies in a targeted manner, to organize many competitions and meetings that unite young people.

Looking at our prosperous lives today, we should be extremely proud of the opportunities that are being created for young people. Our esteemed President Sh.M.Mirziyoyev said: "The young generation, striving for the future, is an incomparable force that carries out new ideas and creative efforts to ensure a prosperous life and high development on our planet" [2]. They trust the youth of Uzbekistan. And to justify this high confidence, of course, every young generation must have a sense of enthusiasm and patriotism.

As long as we, the youth, keep the motto "It is an honor to serve the Motherland with the courage of youth", no foreign ideas or external influences can endanger us.
